The rope which was replaced early in the spring at Gibson's Grove at the lake to mark the place for bathers where the dangerous spot is located, is being used by children to swing on and perform for the amusement of on-lookers. It has been so used this summer until now the 14 foot poles have begun to sag and only a short time and the rope and poles will be gone. The young ladies who were instrumental in securing the funds and placing the rope there, did it for the benefit of bathers to warn them of danger and save life and are disappointed to see it being destroyed in this way. A stop should be put to it.

Lightning Struck the Gibson Barn

During the heavy shower early Monday evening, lightning struck Harry Gibson's stable on Crescent street, starting a blaze that threatened to destroy the whole set of buildings.

The fluid entered the gable end and exploded in the stable chamber scattering flames through the hay and over walls. Lights in the house were instantly extinguished as the wires located in the loft were damaged by the shock.

The fire department responded promptly and soon had the flames subdued. Nearly all furniture on the first floor of the house was removed with little damage and the horse, automobile, and carriages in the stable saved. The stable roof is a total loss and the interior upstairs badly charred, the residence remains uninjured. Loss is covered by insurance.

Charles H. Adams

Charles H. Adams, a well known citizen of Norway, died at his home Saturday evening, August 18, the direct cause being pachymeningitis, with which he had suffered for more than a month. He was 73 years, 1 month, 25 days old.

Mr. Adams was born in Andover, June 24, 1844, the son of William Adams, 2nd and Lucinda Hall Adams. He was educated in the schools of that town and Hebron Academy. Naturally mechanical, he learned the carpenter trade at the bench and after serving this apprenticeship, married Marion Virginia Reed of Mexico in 1866 and settled in Mechanic Falls. Going a short time later to Fairfield, he became superintendent of the Fairfield Framing Co. The family moved to West Paris, where he had full charge of the J. Wayland Kimball Chair Co., one of the largest factories in the country. After four years he went to Bryant's Pond and in company with Ansel Dudley engaged in the manufacturing of chair stock.

In 1892 the location was again changed the family going to Bethel, where he engaged in contracting and building. Directly after the Norway fire in May 1894 the deceased came into town to assist in building up the village. He erected under binding contracts, the high school building, the Second Congregational church, the basement and first floor of the brick I. O. O. F. block, the connecting wing of the shoe factory and many residences and summer homes in this vicinity. The large Masonic block in Biddeford is the result of his labors. Mr. Adams drafted the plans and built his own Main street residence, also the mill on Tannery street now occupied by W. F. Tubbs, where he manufactured builders' supplies and did general jobbing.

Mrs. Adams died December 18, 1898, being survived by a son C. Clifford Adams and a daughter, Mrs. Walter S. Chandler, who died about sixteen years ago. In 1900 he married Mrs. Mary A. Stevens of Andover, who survives.

About forty years ago he took his first F. and A. M. degrees in Tyrian Lodge, Mechanic Falls and was Master of Jefferson Lodge, West Paris while a resident there. After coming to Norway to reside he became a member of Oxford Lodge, No. 18, F. and A. M., Oxford Royal Arch Chapter, No. 29, Oxford Council No. 14, R. and S. M., and Oxford Lodge, No. 1, Ark Mariners He was at one time High Priest of Oxford Council. The deceased was a Republican, a constant attendant at the Congregational Church while his health permitted and took a deep interest in everything pertaining to the advancement of the town.

Beside his wife he is survived by a son, C. C. Adams of Schenectady, N. Y., several grandchildren and a number of great grandchildren. There are three sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Julia Abbott and Mrs. C. Howard Lane of West Paris; Mrs. Andrew W Bridge of Mechanic Falls, Joseph E. Adams of Worcester Mass., Henry Adams of West Sumner and Enoch Adams of East Poland.

Rev. Robert J. Bruce conducted the services Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 in his late home, the Oxford Lodge, F. and A. M. taking charge. Burial in Maple Grove Cemetery at Mechanic Falls.

Benefit Concert

The attendance at the concert at the Grange Hall Friday evening for the benefit of the Red Cross was not large, but the concert was one of the first magnitude. The artists included Atherton Furlong, tenor, Agnes Adie, soprano and Perle Chelew, pianist from the College of Vocal Art of Toronto, Elinor Whittemore violin, Calista K. Rogers, soprano of Boston and Dora Kerwin, reader, of Concord, Mass.

The program was very much enjoyed and among the soprano solos rendered by Miss Adie were "De puis le Jour," from the Opera Louise; "Oh, fors ellue," from Traviata; "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling," "A May Morning." The tenor solos by Mr. Furlong were "Goodbye," Tosti; "I've Something Sweet to Tell You," "Mystery" from echoes of Memory and a duet with Miss Chelew, "A night in Venice." Piano selections by Miss Chelew were, "Liebesfreid, Kreisler, Chanson Triste," Tschaikowski; "Polish Dance," Wieniawski; "Melodie." Soprano solos by Miss Rogers included "Tide River," "Near in the Forest," "Ecstacy," Rummel; "Ava Maris," Bach Gourod. Miss Kerwin's readings were finely rendered and were very interesting. It is seldom that Norway people have the opportunity of having so many talented artists in one concert.

During the evening Mr. Furlong made some very interesting remarks and alluded to his early life which was spent in Greenwood.

The proceeds of the evening were $17.50 for the Red Cross.

Red Cross Concert

The Whittemore Trio is recognized by the critics and leading musicians of Boston as one of the thoroughly musical organizations of that city. They are not only musicans of a high order, but possess the personality which makes their concert a success in every detail.

NORWAY MUNICIPAL COURT.

Wm. F. Jones, Judge.

On Thursday, August 16, at the Norway Municipal Court the hearing was held on the libel of the automobile seized with a load of liquor at Bethel by Deputy Sheriff Davis of Bethel on the 3d inst. The next day after the seizure, Henry Morin of Lewiston paid a fine and costs of $228.65 for illegal transportation. At the hearing Thursday no claimant for the Stevens-Duryea automobile appeared, and it was declared forfeited under a law passed last winter. It is now the property of the county, and may be sold under the direction of the county commissioners. Morin appeared later before U. S. Commissioner Chapman at Portland charged with transporting liquor into Maine. Pleaded not guilty, waived hearing and furnished $500 bail for his appearance at the September term of the U. S. Court.

Monday was a busy day. Deputy E. F. Shaw of South Paris appeared with Oskar Oikkarnen for a disturbance in the West Paris Grange Hall. Pleaded guilty and settled for $5.00 and costs.

Deputy Shaw also brought before the court a party of joy riders, who had been trying to mix red liquor with gasoline. This stuff failed to blend and the quartet were arraigned for drunkeness and disorderly conduct in Woodstock. All pleaded guilty, paying fines and costs amount to $33.10. They gave their names as J. Ruth Cummings and Sarah True secured 108 names of Norway women in favor of equal suffrage. Their time was limited so were unable to complete the work in the village. Electric lights are being installed and the basement enlarged to accommodate a hot water heating plant. Partitions on the second floor have been removed thus enlarging the chambers. An addition is being made to accommodate a large bath room. This homestead has been standing more than a half century and contains many things typical of the early times. Iron fireplaces with wood panels are conspicuous which will be retained. An iron range set into the kitchen chimney, undoubtedly a masterpiece fifty years ago, will be removed. It carries this inscription No. 7 J. Magee Patented Nov. 18, 1862. The walls of the front room have the original paper of early times. It is of strong fiber, is a solid light buff color with small genuine gold leaf sprays imbossed at wide intervals. A narrow dark clouded green moulding completes the decoration. This elegant combination is to remain. When completed, Dr. and Mrs. Thompson will have a cozy home.

Red Cross Flag Hop and Drill

Nearly a hundred couples danced merrily to music furnished by Shaw and True at Norway Opera House Wednesday evening. This was a Red Cross benefit for the local branch and the public responded generously. A large sum will be realized for a worthy cause dear to the hearts of the Norway women. Their work here is unmistakable and the amount of finished product already forwarded to headquarters is far beyond that assembled in more pretentious Maine towns.

A patriotic drill preceeded the hop, given by sixteen young ladies costumed as Columbia, in white dresses, red, white and blue sashes and caps. Charles H. Akers was drill master. Everything passed off without a flaw and their floor work could hardly have been improved. Intricate evolutions and figures were neatly executed, showing long practice and good generalship. The long applause is a testimonial to the quality of their exhibition. The young ladies in the drill were Ruth Akers, Louise Sheldon, Ethelyn Lasselle, Marguerite Frost, Berenice Nash, Marion Bradbury, Ruth Cummings, Marjorie Barker, Ruth Carroll, Mildred Curtis, Doris Brooks, Adeline DeCoster, Bessie Pottle, Esther Pike, Mildred Noyes, Frances Bartlett.

Flags and bunting tastefully arranged about the balcony front and stage, with our national colors flashed from incandescent lights gave the scene real patriotic color, adding materially to the evening's success. Summer residents from far and near generously patronized this benefit.

Twenty-Mule Team Great Attraction

Borax Bill with his famous Death Valley outfit arrived about noon Tuesday via Fore street and was greeted by a crowd. The big string held up at the falls to fix everything for a successful parade, then with bells tinkling, proceeded along Main street to the Opera House Block where the real exhibition was given.

Tarantula Pete was the speeler with an interesting description of the borax mines in Death Valley, California and methods used in procuring nd transporting the mineral 162 miles to shipping points. The country is well named and has for years been unconquered even by man's ingenuity, it being a spot of intense heat without water or habitation. In this ghastly region teams similar to the one on exhibition enter and penetrate its loneliness unmindful of danger, to bring out the valuable mineral borax.

This caravan proved a big curiosity. It included the mules, two heavy wagons, a water tank and trailer for provender and freight. A runabout decorated with advertising display and U. S. flags preceded the string. Borax Bill drove with a single jerk line 125 feet long. One pull meaning turn right and several yanks indicated left. On the load were two brakemen and two assistants who passed over samples of the product during the lecture. The mules are in perfect condition and well trained, each knowing his name and behaving like a model child. If this has been a coast-to-coast trip, the animals show no hard usage, but are sleek and fat, undoubtedly receiving top notch care. Everything necessary for repairs is carried and they claim Borax Bill, who is an old campaigner born in the business, can do any "busting thing" as he expressed it, from nailing on a thrown shoe to harness making or doctoring in true Western fashion.

After doing the principal streets they journeyed to South Paris, thence onward to Rumford. As an advertising scheme, this is a top notcher and the best thing shown here. It was as instructive as a wild west show and youngsters have already absorbed its western atmosphere. We will have mule teams with trailers about our streets until snow flies.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hutchins spent the day Sunday at Old Orchard going by auto with F. W. Walker.

Radical changes in the village school courses are to be made The third grade will occupy a room in the high building as the church basement cannot be secured. Different methods in promotions will also be adopted that will do justice to all pupils and improve the general system.

The bride wore an embroidered white lace gown and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore a pink gown.

Refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed after the ceremony. The bridal couple left immediately and will reside in Oakfield, where they will be at home to their friends after Sept. 1st.

He is also in the real estate business in the firm of Martin, Matthews Co., and is also interested in the potato raising business, having a large acreage this year.

The bride graduated from Paris High school in 1906 and after teaching one year at Locke's Mills entered Bates College, graduating in 1911. She has since been a very successful teacher in Hallowell High school three years, and in Natick, Mass. High school for three years.

Many fine presents of linen, hand painted china, cut glass, silver and money were received by the happy couple.

A poem written for the bridal couple by Miss Anna I Parsons of New York City, was read by Wallace A. Clifford, oldest brother of the bride.

T. McWhorter, using the double ring service. Only near relatives were present, those from out of town being Mrs. Charles T. Merrill and son Richard of Kennebunkport, and Edythe MacDonnell of Everett, Mass. Refreshments were served after the ceremony, the bride and groom leaving town immediately for a short trip.

The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. MacDonnell of Woods Harbor, Nova Sotia; he is foreman in the packing department of the Mason Manufacturing Co., and a member of the several Masonic bodies of South Paris and Norway. The bride is a member of the New England Retail Milliners' Association also of the South Paris Congregational Church. No cards.

Service League Benefit

An audience which filled the Grange Hall to the limit of its seating capacity was present Friday evening for the recital given by Arline D. Crocker for the benefit of the Service League. The program was opened by Isabelle Reardon with a brilliant piano solo which was well received by the audience.

Florence E. Smith of Dorchester, Mass. also assisted with vocal solos, Miss Reardon accompanying her. Miss Smith has a well trained soprano voice and her varied selections were pleasing. She was generous in responding to recalls at all her numbers.

As her principal number Miss Crocker gave selections from Booth Tarkington's highly amusing comedy-in-story, "Seventeen." Miss Crocker who is now taking the course at the Emerson College of Oratory, is not a stranger in her own home, having been frequently heard here very acceptably in readings and on the stage. The passages chosen for recital introduce most of the principal characters of the story, especially featuring the seventeen-year-old William Sylvester Baxter and little sister Jane, and each was presented in a strikingly realistic way. Other selections of different character given later in the program were one of O. Henry's stories, and Kipling's Ballad of the East and the West. Miss Crocker was tendered a reception at the close of the entertainment.

A good sum will be added to the Service League funds from the recital.

Doris Davis of Bethel is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Percy P. Allen.

A. W. Walker and family entertained as guest John S. Carver, former principal of the Paris High School, Friday and Saturday.

RENEWED TESTIMONY

No one in Norway who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Norway man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Norway resident can doubt.

S. C. Foster, barber, Main St., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and I am only too glad to say to others I think they are the best of kidney medicines. Several years ago I had a little kidney trouble. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at F. P. Stone's Drug Store, and I was soon feeling all right again. I remained so for a long time, but later caught cold and my kidneys gave me trouble. I again took Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me relief." (Statement given July 24, 1908.)

On June 6, 1916 Mr. Foster added: "I think as well of Doan's Kidney Pills today as when I first endorsed them. I use them occasionally, as I feel in need of them and I am always promptly benefited."

BRIDGTON

Bridgton Fair

Two races, one of them a genuine thriller, featured the third and closing day of the Bridgton fair, one of the most successful exhibitions in the history of the association. The 2.18 stake race for a purse of $500, which had been looked forward to with much interest, went four heats, the winner being the bay gelding Mudlake, driven by Schuman. Baby Doll took the first heat, but the next three fell to Mudlake and the best that Baby Doll could do was to finish second in the third session. In the other two she was third each time. Third money went to Sadie Mann, driven by Fitts.

Six heats were required to settle the 2.27 contest, which went to Wayland Echo, a bay mare driven by Abbott, Wayland Echo took the third, fourth and sixth heats, while Tony Moko, Peter Billings and the Diverson each captured a first place. In the first heat Wayland Echo was eighth under the wire, the last horse to finish being The Diversion, and in the second she was fifth, this heat being won by The Diversion. Then the race winner took the third and fourth, finished second in the fifth and won the sixth heat and the race. Five of the horses were drawn after the fourth heat.

There was a very good attendance.

Read what Daisy Baker's Mother says about Home-Made Bread and how much she can save on her household expenses.

Look at this Bread!

If you could only actually see it, smell it and taste it!

Yes, I baked it myself. It's very little trouble and it's lots better than I can buy.

Then too, it means a big saving. I am cutting down on my meat bills because the family is eating so much more bread. They seem to like it better than the more expensive foods.

Even if I were not saving on my other bills, I am still saving almost half on the bread itself.

You can do the same thing. It's not hard. All you need is a good recipe and a good flour.

The flour that I use is wonderfully easy to work with. It's made in Ohio—right in the Miami Valley where the soft winter wheat has an unusual quality on account of the rich limestone soil. It's good for everything, and it gives a most delicious nutty flavor to your baking. Take my advice and try

Then Saturday morning, Rufus Rice and wife of Readfield, gave his mother a call at the same place. BIG BARN DOOR SKETCHES

Looking Up Schoolmates, Devil Den Woods, Diminishing Smith Family, Blueberry Job and Jottings of New Hampton.

Jennie Smith Webster lives on a farm in Franklin. Mother and I called on her recently. We were schoolmates at New Hampshire and its been almost forty years since the last meeting. I am told that was at the Northfield centennial. I had almost forgotten Jennie Smith, but Mother said she had married a Webster and was living somewhere in Franklin.

Resort was made to the Transcript-Journal, which knows everything to pick out the Webster wanted. Mr. Sawyer, who sorts and edits stories selected by Judge Towne, said possibly the wife of Warren Webster, the milkman, might be the one. The telephone confirmed the suspicion and I headed for Smith Hill "over the river, through the bridge, under the railroad, turn at second right hand road and go up a hill," those were the directions.

The farm was easily reached and consists of from six to eight hundred acres, several barns and sheds, a long hen pen, an old fashioned two story dwelling, painted white with milk pails and flowers and other evidences of prosperity in the dooryard.

This is where Jennie Smith (Webster) lives. When married she should have compelled Webster to have changed his name to Smith and conferred a favor on the public by continuing the name of Smith for the farm and place. However, at that time I presume her brother, Warren Smith, was living and he was expected to continue the name hence she is excusable.

The place has been in the Smith family for more than a century and the house is practically unchanged from the time of its building. It is stored with ancient things now mixed with modern conveniences.

They have 30 cows, 25 of them are being milked by hand each night and morning and the milk brings 9 cents per quart in the city, which Mr. Webster says is not enough, when a one-horse load of mill-feeds costs $56.00. He is not a member of the New England Milk Producers' Protective Association of Boston.

Mother and I sat in the best room and asked questions so rapidly that Jennie sent into the field and got Warren in to help answer them. A running review of forty years ensued, in which three children had come into the family and one, Ward, remains, the two daughters having died, one at 24 and the other at 5; two brothers of hers had died, also the father and mother.

This is a fair sample of the history of all families of my schoolhood days which I have looked up in recent years and I give it simply as an illustration of the workings of time without complaint or comment.

I looked through the school autograph album of Warren Smith, a brother of Jennie's and asked questions and made comments on each and every familiar name until it was time to return home and forget the days of long ago.

I chased down the birthplace and home of the late David Hebbard Smith of New Hampshire the other day. In this I was assisted by Lettie Smith, who wanted to see the home of her uncle, which was the place where her father was raised.

Passage of the "Straights" was attempted, but I soon learned that only two autos ever got over Coolie Hill—Gov. Floyd's and Dr. Huckins' and not wishing to detract anything from the glory of the achievement I doubled back and took the Dr. Dana Meetinghouse route.

The birthplace of the late Simeon Drake of Norway was visited It is now owned and occupied by Frank Smith, who is a prosperous farmer and tells me the place in the days of the Drakes was used as a tavern. Sim Drake was born there 99 years ago the 24th day of last May and his brother, Darius, was older and his sister who married a Plummer was younger. I do not know of other children, but presume there were others as this number would not be enough to constitute a large family for those days and I've always understood "Simeon was one of a large family of Drakes." He left his New Hampton home at 15 to learn the art of printing in Concord, N. H. At the time of his death in Norway, he had worked continuously at it for some 65 years—24 of which had been in that town.

The old home is well shaded with trees and carries an air of thrift and prosperity with hollyhocks, sunflowers and grandchildren. Frank Smith remembered me when I taught at the Institution and said he recited lessons to me and to Prof. C. S. Flanders.

The boyhood home of Judge O. H. Drake of Pittsfield, Me., was inspected and if I mistake not it is now owned by one Baird with a big brood of children. They were getting in hay when I came along and assisted me in finding Bert Smith's, who now owns the ancestral acres of the Smith family I was chasing down.

He said: "Keep the straight-away-road, pass the Plaisted schoolhouse on the left and take the first right-hand road after leaving the schoolhouse and then inquire." This explicit

"Plaisted schoolhouse" brought to mind that Asa McIntire used to tell me that Gov. Harris L. Plaisted of Maine—the colonel of his regiment—was born in Ashland, N. H., and I wondered if this was the house in which his early ideas began to shoot and I looked it over carefully and expressed the intention of asking Gov. Plaisted, 2nd about it when next I see him.

Uncle David Hebbard Smith's homestead was located and the names on the granite shaft read. There is a half a dozen or more of them. Three generations of Smiths have lived on the place commencing with Stephen Smith and ending with David Hebbard Smith, who is buried in the Ashland Cemetery.

The elder Smith came from Derry, N. H., over a spotted trail and built a log house sometime, probably between 1780 and 1790. The cabin was replaced with the house now standing amid maples and willow trees. The house has two massive chimneys with fireplaces and brick ovens, with large rooms both upstairs and down.

The place went out of the Smith name some thirty odd years ago and was owned by a Stevens, then a Gray, who added piazzas and fitted for summer boarders and then it came into the hands of Adelbert A. Smith, who married Carrie Huckins, now has five children, an automobile and hundreds of bushels of blueberries in the mountain pasture. The latter Smith claims no relationship to its former owner, but mows the grass in the old south burying ground just for looks sake.

David Smith, son of Stephen, was twice married and had nine children: Tom, George and Charlotte, then David Hebbard, Leavitt, Rufus, Moses, Rosetta and Laura.

David Hebbard Smith had three boys and one girl. All three of the boys graduated from New Hampton and then from Bates College. Geo. Ed. Smith and Clarence Cheny Smith are now prominent lawyers in Boston, the former having served as president of the Massachusetts Senate, Thomas Perkins Smith graduated from the Harvard Medical College and practiced in Westbrook, Me., for many years and died recently.

I am told that out of this imposing array of Smiths from David only one male remains and that this branch will soon be extinct.

Arrangements were made for gathering blueberries in the mountain pasture and before this is read I expect to have them all in the market. Bert Smith says there is from three to five hundred bushels, but no job in this line is too big for me to tackel this year. It is easier than tracing out the pedigree of the waning Smith families.

An hour in New Hampton and only three persons seen whom I knew when attending school there 40 years ago. Moses H. Merrow, Chas. D. Thyng and Frank P. Morrill. The first is 91 come September and is the oldest citizen and I think the clearest headed of any of them as he agrees with me in religion, politics, weights, measures, ways and means.

All the instructors in the Institution when I was a student are gone. Possibly some are living. Prof. Frank W. Preston, the acknowledged head of affairs graduated in the class of '77 and succeeded me as a teacher, yet remains, not so much as a teacher, but a sort of semi-emeritis solicitor of funds. In this he has been successful as three new buildings testify. They are monuments to his energy, perseverence and ability whether needed or not.

Randall Hall looks neglected, it has sagged and settled and brick work is cracked and it has an abandoned appearance. The Club House is a little better while the looks of the gymnasium from the outside is bad. Chapel Hall building is much as it was forty years ago. Some changes and shift abouts have been made and much repairing is needed at the present time. All the old buildings need shingling unless I'm mistaken.

Sorry to say I was not pleased with the looks of things and the yearly lessening attendance comfirms my belief in the impracticability of the educational scheme as here attempted.

The Dickerman Fish Pond Hatchery is a good illustration of what I mean.

The rose bush which Miss Carrie Gordon and I set out is gone. Also the maple tree near the bell rope window which shaded me and the robbins is no more. And will you believe it, I'm uncertain as to where the class tree of '76 is located.

I drop the curtain and skittle Over Jordan and through the Devil Den Woods to Tilton and then home to Meredith Center.

Mother has got another cook book, she bought it at the Church Benefit Sale at New Hampton. She is wondering which one of the recipes is best and threatens to try out the whole batch on me as soon as she gets home.

I'm to prolong the visit here as much as possible. There are many wonderful things in the book. She has also got an apron to go with it, both costing 85 cents. The apron covers her all up, but has got to be let out and fitted in the neck and a few more buttons put on it. Its a beauty and of modest design or perhaps I should say pattern. It just had to be bought. That's all.

The Cook Book is a modest affair as the ladies only put their initials after their contributions. It is also a model for accuracy and size. I notice only one pencilled in correction and that is a chocolate pudding. This is much less than is usually found in such literary productions and reflects great credit to the editors and printers.

And, too, there are blank pages on which can be written new recipes, birth of babies and the time of setting the hen. The only thing lacking is a hole and a string for hanging on a peg beside Dudley Leavitt's Almanac. It is a valuable acquisition in the family and the printing was done by the Journal-Transcript Press, Franklin Falls, N. H.

Corn at $4.25 per bag and eggs 40 cents per dozen. Do hens pay? I do not know.

The dog has been shown a whip and given a lecture by Grandmother. She is breaking him of chasing "Go-devils."

Last year I could only look at the good things neighbors brought me but this year I eat them and am looking for more.

When bit by a rattlesnake suck the wound at once. Do it with vehemence, eloquence and grace as your life depends on getting the poison out.

A telephone that won't work is a discouragement. It leads to vehement language shocking to sensitive ears. The Citizens Telephone has joined the I. W. W.'s and is pretty much on a strike all the time. It should be eradicated!

While in Bristol, recently, I was invited to partake of ice cream with the decendants of the late Capt. R. A. Musgrove. Five bright and rugged children were at the table and the Mrs. Captain joyfully said there were three more—8 grandchildren and all gave to fun and music.

Anthrax has again broke loose in the State and this time in Compton about 25 miles northwest from here. Commissioner Andrew L. Felker and Dr. R. W. Smith are on the job and think they have it corralled. House, barn, rocks and fields have received scientific treatment and it is now thought safe for summer schoolmarms to bath in the Pemegewassett this side of Plymouth.

Since I was photographed and find I am handsome I spend a great deal of time admiring myself and mailing free copies of the picture to those who express a curiosity to see it.

Send in your orders for it at once and the Belfast Postcard Mill will soon be working overtime.

A card addressed to Meredith Center, N. H. will find me.

CHILDREN'S HEALTH OF FIRST IMPORTANCE TO A MOTHER.

Nothing causes greater anxiety to the mother of a family than the symptoms of illness in one of her children—Feverishness, loss of appetite, irritability, or listlessness—developing unexpectedly and without apparent cause, will at once produce uneasiness and worry in the mother's mind, unfitting her for her daily duties.

If the illness is due to digestive disturbances, worms, or a cold in its early stages, there is no safer, speedier relief for such trouble than prompt and systematic use of that old time household remedy, "L. F." Atwood's Medicine. It prevents congestion of the digestive apparatus, increases the flow of bile, and helps to correct the entire disturbance. Always keep a bottle ready for use in time of trouble, either for children or adults. At your dealer's, 35 cents. "L. F." Medicine Co., Portland, Maine.

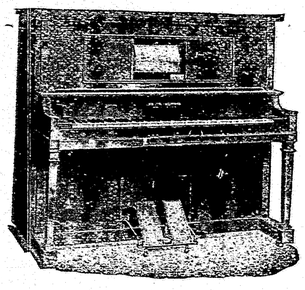
WHY A PLAYER?



How many times do people say that they'd like to have "life to live over again?" Sort of a foolish wish. What's past is gone and regretting isn't going to bring it back not one inch or one second nearer.

What are the things YOU would like to bring back? Are you sorry you didn't have a musical education? Many people have been so busy doing things, they couldn't exercise their talents much. They found other work to do—more pressing work.

The Playerpiano is for people of that kind—for people who DIDN'T HAVE THE CHANCE—or who wouldn't take it. But—the Playerpiano fills in that gap of things you've wished for. It supplies music to you—BY YOUR OWN EFFORTS—that's maybe better than you would have learned it even if you'd studied and practised.

And it gives you that satisfaction of having a piano in your home. It makes it LIKE OTHER HOMES. It's a lot better than looking into the fire, and wondering WHY you hadn't improved your opportunities a good deal. It's better than a home SILENT for lack of music. It seems as though you'd let more LIGHT into your home and captured it, to feed it out just as your desires tell you to. The PLAYERPIANO is the bridge that connects today with what MIGHT HAVE BEEN in the long ago!

Pianos, Playerpianos and Organs. New music rolls every month. Send for catalogues.

SEPTEMBER'S TRAIL

I like to stray along a way September's lately traveled—
My steps can hardly pick a path the miracles among;
On every bank a twisted thread of ruddy vine unraveled,
On every bush and every bough a fleck of crimson flung.

Bright at each turn slim maples burn and sumac fires kindle,
Th delicate clematis bloom is scattered, white as milk,
And every staff of golden-rod is like a shining spindle,
And all the wind-blown milkweed pods are spinning silver silk.

A flock of little lazy leaves, like yellow birds unnumbered,
Skims down the crystal air to light upon an old gray wall;
An ancient tree leans, gnarled and low, with precious weight encumbered,
And ripe with heat and summer-sweet, the mellow apples fall.

I like to go with musing heart and happy eyes unholden
Along a beauty-laden way September's late-ly trod;
Sometimes—the russet fields stretch out to fairer fields, and golden;
Somehow—with human feet I walk a straighter road to God.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas the Devine Master has called our Sister Susie Evans from the associations of this life to that of the grand life beyond,

Resolved, that while we suffer distinct loss to our Grange and community, we recognize in it the dealing of the Divine Master of the universe, who doeth all things well and doth not willingly afflict the children of men.

Resolved, that we offer to our brother our united sympathy and bid him put his trust in Him who is able to bind up the wounds of the heart and to comfort the afflicted.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the husband, one to the Norway Advertiser for publication and one spread upon our records.

SECOND MAINE INFANTRY LEAVE HOME

The Second Maine Infantry numbering nearly 2,100 clean cut young men, moved from the Augusta camp grounds late Sunday afternoon, Aug. 19, entraining under sealed orders for an unknown destination. Before their departure the commander, Col. Frank M. Hume, tendered a review to Governor Carl E. Milliken and staff in the presence of 15,000 people. Five train sections were required to transport the troops and their outfits. Augusta gave them a fine send off and they were met in Portland with a good crowd.

Preparations for departure commenced in earnest early Sunday morning. Tents were struck about 8 o'clock and the twenty-two mule teams with a large detail hauled baggage nearly all day. Each company cleaned up their respective street all spic and span, keeping the incinerator stocked with fuel throughout the day.

Hundreds of soldiers not on duty roamed with the large crowd or entertained friends who came to say the final good bye. The boys were not allowed to go far from the lines, but entertained their wives and sweethearts under the nearby pines or any spot where they could enjoy the last hours unmolested. Of course there were tears, couldn't blame them for that. No one seemed ashamed to express their feeling in this manner and the curious throng walking suddenly on a pair thus engaged realized the sacredness of the spot and wandered away without comment, leaving them alone with their grief.

About noon the companies lined up for mess, eating in the open from a bare table. Many soldier boys had parents who brought a home made picnic dinner. These formed in family groups where they could be alone, making a touching picture when the uncertainties of war are considered. Yes, there were many sober faces about this last gathering, yet cheerfulness predominated and many smiles indicated the father, the mother or sister and brother were bravely struggling to cheer their loved one and make his departure less sad. Cameras played an important part. Hundreds of films were snapped that will prove not only of historical value fifty years hence, but a heart balm during the months of suspense before affairs are settled and the soldier boy returns.

About 2 o'clock the real departure began. The companies formed in their streets with arms, then marched to the muster field ready for the review. It was an impressive spectacle! Crowds thronged the three sides of the open square while the boys arranged in battalions occupied the lower line. One movie man stationed on a high tower swept the field while another dogged every step of the Governor and his staff. This was not a holiday crowd, it was not a joyous throng. There were sad faces and tears. Many having no relatives or friends in that magnificent regiment were deeply affected by the sorrowful scene about them.

Space would not permit a regimental formation, so were arranged in battalions when Governor Milliken and staff reviewed the regiment. After this inspection, accompanied by the Regimental band, marched about the field in company front, completely covering the large parade grounds. The boys had the swing like veterans, and were applauded along the lines. Everything about them testified to the good results of intensive training. Yes, Maine is proud of her sons who have volunteered to uphold its traditions and give themselves if need be for a just and righteous cause. Then enter heartily into this struggle, not for money nor as adventurers, but to save our land from an enemy lying in wait to plunder our treasure houses and destroy the home traditions so dear to every true American.

After inspection the regiment marched to their streets, shouldered the equipment and waited in a pouring rain for the order to move. Torrents fell as they marched into the city and were directed to their coaches. Every man was wet to the skin, but this reception could not dampen their spirits. They accepted this as an incident only and soon forgot their soaked clothing when comfortably established in the pullman coaches.

The troop train went in five sections. In the first were stationed the band, the mounted scouts, the hospital detachment, the supply company and machine gun company of Bangor. Freight was carried in the second. The third section carried the first battalion under the command of Major John A. Hadley, Rumford. This included A Company of Dexter under Capt. Percy Hasty; B Company of Rumford, Capt. Spaulding Bisbee; C Company, Livermore Falls, Capt. Roland G. Finley; D Company, Norway, Capt. James W. Hanson.

Section number four contained the second battalion under the command of Major Walter J. Mayo, Foxcraft, included E company, Skowhegan, under First Lieut. John W. Healey; F company, Dover, Capt. Charles H. Norton; G company, Bangor, Capt. Daniel I. Gould; H company, Waterville, Capt. William H. Murray.

The third battalion occupied the fifth section commanded by Major Wiliam E. Southard of Bangor. This included I company of Eastport with Capt. Wilford S. Alexander in command; K company, Farmington, Capt. Albert E. Andrews; L company, Houlton, Capt. Elson A. Horsford and M company, Augusta, Capt. Thomas M. J. Enright.

Random Observations From Camp Keyes

Sunday was an ideal day on the hill for camp breaking and sight seeing. A cool breeze swept across the grounds, tempering the hot sun that would have welted the big gathering under sultry conditions.

A glorious downpour right off the Kennebec river broke over the multitude at 4 o'clock as the boys were in line to entrain. They stood their ground, consequently were soaked clean through. If it made sponges of the olive drab uniforms what would this deluge do to a flimsy summer rainment? Many white dresses starched for the occasion resented a sorry spectacle, offering drapery effects not altogether lovely.

Several movie operators were on the grounds early picking up action to can. They gunned wherever anything looked promising. Soldiers and Civilians were filmed at every turn and this material will be sent into every picture house about Maine for us to rush after. Many subjects will undoubtedly prove valuable especially that captured from the several companies, but considerable horseplay was staged and indiscrete lovers photographed in action that may prove a flareback as time passes. The last reels were ground off in the rain storm as the boys marched away. It was dark and this most valuable part may turn out the least interesting from an artistic standpoint.

The Second Maine can boast of more than 100 mules and one auto truck. (We are speaking of transportation only) Twenty-two wagons hauled by four long eared beasts and manned heavily slinging tentage all day. It was a hard grind and required nearly eight hours to clear the field. The whole affair seemed much like moving a big circus, there was no confusion and every detail appeared well oiled.

With 15,000 people plus 2,000 soldiers framed up something not unlike our familiar cattle show crowds. Probably 500 autos were parked near headquarters and about the outskirts. Not a drunken man was observed nor a whiff of liquor picked out. The crowd were orderly, requiring no policing..

The Second Regiment are well drilled. Orders were given shortly before 8 A. M. to make ready to strike tents. Every man knew his lesson so when the whistle sounded down came the canvas and a busy scene followed. Tents were rolled up, board floors carried to the end of each street and stacked and all baggage brought out ready for the wagons. Everything was piled up and the camp lot clean as a new dollar in exactly 15 minutes.

Not a scrap of paper, tin can or cigar butt could be found about the grounds. Several times during the day the companies were called out for a clean-up. It was noticeable how careful the boys were not to throw bnana skins or paper lunch boxes around. These immediately found their way to the open fire which burned all day.

About a dozen prisoners were in the guard house. They were a happy bunch. All looked the picture of good nature while poking their heads through small windows or lounging about the door. Many guyed friends as they passed and the confinement failed to dampen their love of the humorous. It was the same when the "overhead brigade" sallied forth with shovels. The prisoners burlesqued their manual at arms with the shovels and made considerabl sport while marching under an armed guard to their job.

Mascots are trumps with the soldier boys. K company owned a bear, H company possessed a lively monkey, D and B companies each owned a dog. I company claimed two goats and other pets were carried along. Kittens were not uncommon.

Snapshot cameras had their inning during the day. Family groups, individual posers and the ever present lovers came in strong on the game. These pictures will be treasured in the years to come and our great grandchildren no doubt will proudly display them as momentas of the glorious historic age.

The Young Men's Christian Association Army branch has done excellent work at the camp and they follow the regiment with their roomy canvas. Reading and writing material is furnished without cost and a piano added greatly to the sociability among the frequenters. They erected a stage, movie screen and machine house near their headquarters where the latest motion pictures were given at least once a week. Local talent furnished the vaudeville numbers and believe me, if reports are true, they certainly put up some show. In the regiment can be found ex-circus and variety performers who have not lost their skill as entertainers. Acrobatic, black face turns and sparring made great hits in this open air theatre. Oscar Valley, D company, a former operator at the Savoy, South Paris, and Corp. Lurvey of B company have been grinding the canned product. Music was furnished by an orchestra of one piece, a piano.

The Second Regiment band of twenty pieces composed largely of University of Maine boys, have a splendid organization. They play the heaviest grade written and the instrumentation well balanced. If good inspiring music can cheer up the most disheartened, this regiment will never grow long faces or cry baby about the lot.

William H. Knightly of Waterford, a private in D company, has been released by order of Judge Hale of the District Court. His mother, Mrs. Fred D. Knightly, states that the boy will be 17 in October, therefore, not eligible. Alton C. Wheeler, her attorney, instituted Habeas Corpus proceedings through Deputy U. S. Marshal Smith with the foregoing result.

Soldier husbands with their brides and loving lovers were everywhere. The highly emotional sort camped down in any old place and poured out many briney tears. Others more retiring wandered to secluded spots where their grief could not become the subject for some snap-shot fiend.

Of course we are proud of the D company of Norway. Their fine work has received complimentary mention by several disinterested pencil pushers. The boys under Capt. James Hanson, Lieut. Guy I. Swett, Lieut. John Wilson and First Sergt. Albert Brackett have developed wonderfully since reaching camp. Deeply tanned and physically fit in every way, they hike off like seasoned veterans. The snap and ginger in their every move with the true soldierly bearing give us a thrill of pride. We doff our hats to the boys regardless of company, who had the moral courage to answer the volunteer call and offer themselves a sacrifice to humanity. It means personal inconvenience and months of the hardest work. Each has given up home pleasures and some profitable occupation, or sacrificed congenial companionship with some loved one for duty. To these stalwart fellows we stand at attention with hats off, wishing them God speed and a safe return. Let us be as the ancient Spartan mother when sending her husband or sons to war, gave this parting message, "Either come home with your shield or upon it."

Word has been received from several Company D boys. They reached Westfield, Mass., safely about 4:30 Monday afternoon and opened camp about two miles out. Bushes grow over the camp site and they slept under dog tents Tuesday night. Wednesday they expected to be called out with axes and shovels to prepare space for regular tents and company streets. Their ride occupied 20 hours with regular mess served on the train, no long stops enroute being made. Address mail to Co. D, 2nd Me. Infantry, Camp Bartlett, Westfield, Mass.

USING WASTE FRUIT

An important work being done by the women of Canada is the canning of waste fruits. The Red Cross canning factory as one of these places is known, gathers in all the waste fruit that can be found and jellies of all kinds are made and sent to the soldiers in France and England. This season our boys should get a large amount of fruit canned by the Canadian women and if the fruit is plentiful the Tommies and Sammies will be happy.

Last season one factory used 25,000 tons of sugar in the jellies made for the boys at the front. The fruit was gathered by volunteers and the apples were peeled by society women, some of them working all night during the busy season. All the work was done by volunteers. The money for the sugar and the cans and glasses was donated and the freight charges were very small.

Windfalls were plentiful last fall and as soon as the farmer reported that apples were going to waste a corps of volunteer workers was enlisted and the apples were brought to the canning factory.

Apples are used for the base of all the jelly and many flavors are added. Most of the apples are used for the jelly were no good for marketing. When the first lot was received at the hospitals in France and England there was a great rejoicing among the wounded soldiers.—Halifax Recorder.

RED CROSS CHRISTMAS SEALS

Plans have been completed by the American Red Cross and The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis for the opening of the 1917 Red Cross Christmas Seal Sale about November 20 and continuing up to January 1. The campaign will seek to raise at least $3,000,000 for the anti-tuberculosis movement in the United States, or more than double the returns in any previous year. The war has made it imperative that every possible facility for the care of consumptives be enlarged.

In announcing the plans for an increased campaign, The National Association and the American Red Cross call attention to the fact that the examination of 10,000,000 men subject to the draft, besides thousands of others who are enlisting voluntarily, has already and will continue to disclose thousands of new cases of tuberculosis, which have hitherto been unsuspected. To provide facilities for the care of these cases and to educate the general public and the consumptives themselves relative to the danger of the spread of tuberculosis, the American Red Cross and The National Association call upon the people of the United States for increased contributions. "We can avoid the fatal mistake of France and some of our Allies only by excluding tuberculosis from the Army and by providing adequate care for every case of this disease developing in this country," says Dr. Charles J. Hatfield, Executive Secretary of the National Association.

The money raised from the sale of Red Cross Seals will be distributed throughout the United States and most of it will remain in the communities where the Seals are sold. In every state, however, it is planned to establish a special war fund, to provide immediate facilities for discharged recruits and soldiers. These funds will be administered through the state and local anti-tuberculosis associations in co-operation with the Military Department of The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Four hundred million seals have already been printed and 100,000,000 more are being prepared. The seals this year are of a new and particularly attractive design, the center of which, instead of the familiar Santa Claus, is a Christmas tree snow laden. These little stickers are now being distributed in every section of the United States and its territories from the Philippine Islands to the Canal Zone.

The local machinery for handling the sale this year is more complete than ever before. There are now well organized state associations in every state in the Union There are altogether, including state and local organizations, 1,500 anti-tuberculosis agencies in the country, all of which will take part in the sale.

THE GIANT AWAKE

We have but recently witnessed an event in this country the like of which the world has never before seen—at least, the world of our knowledge. We have witnessed the entrance into the ranks of a nation's fighting men, of ten million soldiers, waiting for the call to the colors. We see today an army of nearly two million men actually under arms, equipped and assembled, ready to do or die in their country's service.

It is an amazing sight. America, the peaceful; America, the cradle of toleration, the nursery of justice and right—America in arms and springing to the fray!

The strange feature of the case is, it has astonished even Americans themselves. We had been so long accustomed to hear ourselves referred to as a sleeping giant that we had come to so regard ourselves. We had thought that the affairs of the outside world concerned us not, and that we were sufficient unto ourselves.

But today sees the giant awake. A little groggy, it is true, but rapidly assimilating the power and might that will sweep everything before him when once he gets his stride. It also sees him shorn of his provincialism and taking his rightful place in the world—a man of power and might among men of power and might.

And being awake, we find confronting us one of the most stupendous tasks that ever confronted a people. We find ourselves the probable deciding factor in a world war, the balance of power that shall make this earth a safe place of abode for all men—a world in which RIGHT, and not MIGHT, shall reign.

With this great task before us, we are going about our preparations as befits a people who have not only confidence in their own powers, but a full appreciation of the magnitude of the task as well. While we have not proclaimed it broadcast, yet deep within the hearts of our people there is a firm determination that the sword shall not be sheathed until the cause of humanity has triumphed over the forces of oppression and tyranny. There is but one sentiment heard from the lips of all loyal people: "We MUST win."

Therein lies the meaning of the quiet, deep, but deadly purpose of our people. We must win for humanity's sake. When were our people ever called upon to perform a task for humanity, that they failed?

Our millions who have answered the call have come cheerfully. They have stepped forward with the fullest appreciation of the work before them, but also with supreme confidence in their ability to perform that task. This is the spirit that conquers, and it will conquer in this instance.

Soldiers of America, never in the history could it be more truely said that "the eyes of the world are upon you."

JOSEPH ANDREWS' LETTERS

I attended the Christian Church Sale and supper and met a few old friends and enjoyed a good New England Supper. The church is prospering and forms the religious and social center for a large number of people in the neighborhood. I met the pastor, the Rev. Charles H. Fisher, who at once pinned a "vote for woman" badge on the lapel of my coat, which I faithfully wore with a Hughes button until after the November election. At the church I met for the first time Mr. and Mrs. Noah Palmer. They said they had read my letters in the Advertiser and wanted to shake hands with me.

From the church I took a walk down to Brown's Camps, crossed the neat bridge to one tree Island, once owned by Uncle Isaac Andrews, but now by a Mr. Whiteacre who has built a fine cottage and made of the lone island a beautiful home. I walked along the white sandy bathing beach where, when a boy, I gathered pond lillies, bathed in its clear, soft waters and once I remember a large croud from the Christian church gathered there to witness the baptism by emersion of several new converts.

Going up Sabatos way, I turned off, climbed the hill and paid a little visit to the old home farm, now called the Martin place. I climbed old blueberry knoll, visited the frog pond, the old fishing hole where I caught my first trout, walked through the heavy pine trees to the old orchard where I picked apples from apple trees that were old when I was a boy, at least sixty-five years ago. One tree, from which I once picked twenty-two bushels of choice winter apples, was still in bearing and had several bushels of apples upon its limbs.

I visited twice at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanford and son Charles. Mr. Sanford is a veteran of the civil war. Mrs. Stanford was one of my school mates and grew up a bright and noble woman. For about eight years she has been troubled with heart trouble which keeps her in feeble health. All those years her son Charles has been her faithful household helper. He makes elegant raised bread and is a fine cook, judging from the dinner he served while I was there. I have since heard of Mrs. Stanford's death, that she died in her sleep, a penniless death. I took a fine picture of the family standing out in front of the house Now that she is gone I shall prize that picture highly. Mrs. Stanford makes four of my old school mates, three of which have always lived in the home district, who have died within a year.

I enjoyed two overnight visits with Mr. and Mrs. Elwell Andrews and found them contented, prosperous and happy. Mr. Andrews is one of a very few who have continually resided upon the old homestead farm, that of his father, Stephen, and of his grandfather, Capt. Samuel Andrews of revolutionary times.

At the home of Otis Andrews and wife I enjoyed a very pleasant call and noonday meal. A year ago, Mr. Andrews had a sweet apple tree in his orchard, which was raided by a bear. He set a bear trap and the very next morning caught the vermin and he and his neighbors had a treat of bear meat.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Eastman, I also enjoyed two over night visits. I found them like most of my Lovell friends, contented, prosperous and happy. They are amongst the social and religious workers of the community and active members of the Christian Church at the Center. In my younger days, when Jacob Andrews owned the farm, I was a frequent visitor at their home for the three boys, Frank, Charles and Isaac, and the little girl, Sarah, were great friends of mine. Their mother, Aunt Martha, as we called her, was a famous cook. I can almost see her fine big sheets of old fashioned molasses gingerbread, brown bread and mince pies.

At that time Dean McDaniels owned the farm adjoining on the top of the hill. I remember once when I was there he and Jacob had bought a big hogshead of molasses and were drawing it out and pouring it into barrels to divide it. We boys were given the privilege of eating all we cared for of the sweet stuff, which we thought a great treat, but were soon satisfied. All except Tom Adams, a big giant of a fellow, who made his home with Abel Heald and who chanced to be present. He ate, and ate, and ate, until it seemed as though his stomach would burst, but he survived it all and later enlisted as a soldier of the civil war. He never came back to Lovell. It was said that the last seen of him was in Pennsylvania, where some one who knew him saw him traveling from house to house with a peddler's pack on his back.

I visited twice with my old friend, Freeman Andrews, wife and daughter, Isabell, now Mrs. George Files. The Northeast Lovell correspondent of the Advertiser. When I was there four years ago, Freeman was strong and robust and took great pride in showing me over his fine productive 300 acre farm, much of it valuable pine timber. About three years ago he had a very severe shock which badly affected his speech and one leg and arm. His mind seems clear and he enjoys company, but can speak but a few words—"yes" and "exactly" being his two favorite words. His daughter is his stenographer and easily understands his various signs and motions. With the aid of a cane he slowly walks about the house and front yard.

The first time I was there they were just finishing up haying and I met Geo. Whitehouse who was helping them, also James Brackett, son of Mrs. Andrews, who makes his home with them. The last time I was there Mr. Files and Mr. Brackett were hard at work cutting the field of corn, so Mrs. Files hitched up the family horse and took me for a ride to Heald's Lake to make calls and see the country. We made door yard calls at the Rowe, Kendall, and Clara Harriman homes and with Ira Heald and son in the road. Four years ago Freeman took me the same round of calls, but included Enos Kimball and wife (nee McDaniels). This aged and worthy couple had both passed away since then. Mrs. Files returned me to the home in time for a good hearty dinner, after which I bade my good friends good-bye and took to the road again.

Under date of Nov. 13th, Mrs. Files wrote me in part as follows: "Suppose you will see or hear before this letter reaches you that Charlie Stanford's mother has passed away. She died Nov. 9th on her 44th year of married life. Mr. Stanford and Charles are living all alone and of course are very lonely. My husband and brother are out deer hunting. We have sleighing here and ten inches of snow came before the farmers were ready for it. Our corn turned out fine, had 115 bushels. I read your letter in the Advertiser and looked for another one last night."

We will now make a short visit over Eastman's hill and then say good-bye to Lovell and Fryeburg for a long time to come.

Four years ago I met Mellen Eastman at the I. O. O. F. lodge and he invited me to visit him, said he would treat me well. I knew Mellen when he was a small boy, for he attended the Congregational Sunday school at the Center. I had seen his father, and his brother Geo. was an old friend of mine, so I decided to accept that invitation, although it was getting rather cold. So I started off up the road towards the poor farm. About half way down to the old George Jones place, Mr. Jobe Palmer, who lives at that place, overtook and gave me a lift up the first hill to his place, then I started on foot, passing the house on the poor farm in the distance. I think someone told me that there was but one inmate at the poor farm besides the man in charge, which is accounted for, I suppose, by the fact that Lovell is a temperance town.

Going on down into the valley I next climbed the long steep Eastman's hill on which are located the three fine farms owned in my boyhood days by Uncle John Charles, Daniel Eastman and Isaac Eastman. I well remember Uncle John. He was at our place when I was quite a small boy, with fro and shave, riving out and shaving shingles from bolts sawn out of old growth pine logs that were found half burried in moss and muck in low swampy places in the timber. I remember when the old barn built by Uncle Isaac Andrews across the road from Henry Russell's, was torn down by Abel Heald that they said that the old growth shaved shingles had been in use for fifty years, and were yet sound.

Uncle John must have been of good stock, for he raised up a superior family of children Three of his daughters married neighbors of mine. They were Cyrus and Charles Andrews and Henry Gary. The two boys were fine men and good farmers. I remember that one year they plowed up a six acre sheep pasture and sowed it to wheat, from which they harvested 108 bushels of choice wheat.

In the big brick house with four tall chimneys, lived Daniel Eastman and his wife. They were good people, and church goers and frequently attended the Center church. Isaac Eastman who lived in the third house, I did not know so well, for I seldom saw him. I know that he stood high in the community, was a war democrat, and as such was elected to the State legislature. I found Mr. Eastman busy in the hay-field and his wife, daughter and a visiting friend; busy picking tame blackberries of which they had a large supply. Being left alone a while in the afternoon, I secured two quart berry boxes and wandered out in the highway and hedges and soon got stuck in the wild blackberry patch, where I quickly filled my two boxes, and then in a foolish attempt to clean the bushes, I was like Tom Adams and the molasses hogshead. I ate and ate of the luscious berries until I could eat no more, the sequel of which I will tell in my next day's adventure. Mrs. Eastman, a daughter of my old friend and neighbor, Henry Gerry, and must have been six years old when I first went west. They have a fine home, a productive farm and grand views of the nearby mountains. I do not remember just who Robert Eastman is, but judge him to be a man with a big heart, a romantic disposition and lots of money. He has bought the John Charles and Daniel Eastman farm in order to keep them in the family and has greatly improved them both, having put in high pressure, hot and cold water works and an electric power and light plant. He lives in the city and was later than usual in visiting his summer home, so I missed the pleasure of meeting him.

After a good night's rest and a sumptuous breakfast, I bade my friends goodbye and started out for my morning walk. I followed the road part way down the hill to where the four roads meet, then turned to the left and finished the descent, and then on to the Grafton Ring home where I stopped for a short visit. Mr. Ring's mother was a sister to the wife of my cousin, William Andrews, and it was by request of the Andrews children, who I visited at Exira, Iowa, that I made the visit. I had met Mr. Ring once before in the early sixties, when he and his sister, and Nathan and Abbie Andrews called at our place at Lovell Center, and my sister and I went with them to the West Oxford County Fair at Fryeburg village, which we visited and spent the day together. The only thing special about the fair that I remember was the side show of the "Belgium Giant, 8 feet tall and weighing over 400 pounds. My sister and I felt too poor to pay the price of admission so we did not see the Giant Wonder. Mr. Ring has quite a good sized farm and a fine orchard, well loaded with apples. The finest lot of apples that I saw anywhere on my trip. The steep high cliff of old Sabatos Mountain stands like a sleeping giant, not more than half a mile away.

In passing up the lane to the house, I passed beneath an apple tree beneath which lay many small delicious sweet apples. I picked up two and ate them, which with my blackberry feast of the day before, and the good things eaten at the Eastman home that morning, produced not high blood pressure, but high food pressure on my stomach, and made me feel decidedly uncomfortable, in fact, came near giving me a sure attack of acute indigestion, but I kept my feet. ate a very light dinner, and a few dispeptic tablets given me by Mrs. Ring, and as Mr. Ring was going to the village, I bade my kind hostess good-bye rode to No. 4 with him and footed it back to Mr. Pottle's where Mrs. Pottle put me on a diet of milk and raw eggs for three days, when I was able to take to the road again. I will next be heard from journeying over Bridgton Center way.

No Canton Fair

At a recent meeting of the trustees of the Androscoggin Valley Agricultural Society it was decided that no fair will be held on the grounds at Canton this year. The fair has encountered some difficulties and hard luck the past few years and with the uncertainties of attendance under war conditions, it was deemed advisable to give up the 1917 exhibition.

Many people have not always agreed with Mr. Bryan in his views, but every true American will agree with his latest—that the way to end the war is to go through it. "Through is the word. But put an "o" in it and make it "thorough" too.

It is estimated that fully 20 sets of farm buildings have been destroyed during the recent series of thunder storms in Eastern Maine.

Paris Grange

Paris Grage met August 18 at 8 P. M. and a large attendance of the members. The third and fourth degrees were conferred on three candidates.

A framed picture of Past Master Cairns was presented to the grange. Mrs. M. B. Wright gave the Grange a lot of nice books for the library.

Marion Smith gave an interesting report of their success in gardening and canning.

Refreshments were served in the dining room and Mrs. A. R. Wheeler was presented with a string and told to follow it and see what she could find and it led her to a large basket filled with presents and a case of canned goods from the Colburn Garden Cannery presented by Prof. and Mrs. Smith of Paris Hill. This was intended to represent a "shower" for Mrs. Wheeler in honor of her approaching marriage to Worthy Master Frank S. Hudley.

Sept. 1 the Grange will observe Children's Day with a picnic when the children will furnish the program.

Leroy B. Abbott

Leroy Buck Abbott, a well known resident of South Paris, dropped dead early Monday evening, August 20, while caring for a tent in his yard before the heavy thunder storm broke. He ate a hearty supper after the usual day's labor, making no complaint of feeling ill and just finished an errand down town. Heart failure is considered the cause of death.

Mr. Abbott was born at Milton Plantation, January 1, 1856, the son of Calvin and Susan (Buck) Abbott. He resided there several years and was educated in the Milton schools, later married, but Mrs Abbott lived only a few years. He came to South Paris and found employment with the Paris Manufacturing Co. nearly 30 years ago where he has remained except one year in Fryeburg and four in Norway as manager of the Town farm.

Soon after coming here he married Julia E. Briggs, daughter of Joseph Briggs of South Paris. He belonged to no fraternal orders, but was a member of the Deering Memorial Church and a constant attendant.

The deceased is survived by his wife and two children by a former marriage, Bert Abbott of New York City and Mrs. Gertrude Emerson of Milan, N. H. One son by the second marriage passed away in infancy. Three brothers also remain, Granville of South Paris, Benjamin and Calvin of Bryant's Pond.

Services were held in the Methodist church this Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Insley Bean of Lewiston assisted by Rev. Faulkner, pastor of the church. Interment in Riverside Cemetery.

George A. Wilson of Houlton, formerly of South Paris, brother of Mrs. Walter L. Gray, who has been training at Madison Barracks, New York, has been appointed a second lieutenant in the national army.

Albert Ames visited Camp Keyes at Augusta, Sunday.

The successor to B. E. Morrison, manager of the Paris Shoe Co., has not been secured and the factory is closed temporarily. It is understood they will start again next week.

Eva Walker, Lula Billings, Evelyn Wight and Dorothy Thomas of Norway are spending the week at Lilac Lodge and others will join them later.

The wooden platform at the Grand Trunk station has been removed at the back side and south end of the station. It is understood that in time a new platform of concrete will be built at the station. Some grading has been done with ballast gravel where the platform was removed and enough concrete work will be done to afford entrances to the doors. On the front, the wooden platform still remains.

Paris Auto Sales Co. has been recently organized with Harold C. Fletcher as treasurer and manager. This move was made because of the new rule laid down by the Ford Motor Company barring their agents from handling cars of other manufacturers. The new agency has rooms in the Odd Fellows block, but the Ford sales room will remain at the Ripley & Fletcher garage.

Mrs. Roy E. Strickland and two sons, who had spent several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McArdle, returned to their home in Schenectady, N. Y., August 16. Mr. Strickland had expected to come here for a vacation, but was unable to get away from his employment.

Mrs. N. J. Nicholson and two children, Jane and Stuart, who have been guests at J. E. Murch's several weeks, have returned to Revere, Mass. Frances will remain until schools open.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Swett and son Roger of Winchester, Mass., came Sunday morning to visit Mrs. Swett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Nichols. They make their headquarters at Hotel Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. Almon Churchill have recently received a letter from their son, Lovell Churchill, who enlisted in one of the saw mill units and is now in Scotland. He writes that the Atlantic ocean upon the map in his geography is different than the same body of water in reality. He learned more about it in fifteen days of the "real thing" and was mighty glad when he landed and would be much more pleased to see home land on the return trip.

Owing to delayed shipments the work of the Service League has been delayed, now there is work for all. It is hoped that all women who can, will help on the sewing at the League rooms. No one need stay away for fear there is not enough to go around.

H. W. Dennison and family, who have been for the past few years in Auburn, Ind., will return to South Paris about the first of September. Mr. Dennison will take the position which he formerly held in the office of the Paris Manufacturing Co., succeeding E. C. Torrey, who is to go soon to Plattsburg for training. While in Auburn Mr. Dennison has been connected with the Auburn Post Card Co., and secretary of the Auburn Commercial Club. Their removal from that city is greatly regretted and they will be cordially welcomed to South Paris.

Lightening demolished the chimney on the Shurtleff schoolhouse, lower Main street, early Friday morning. Little damage was done to the interior.

Among those who are in Boston attending the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic are Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Whitman, Franklin Maxim, W. S. Starbird, Olban A. Maxim, W. S. and F. L. Wyman of South Woodstock. They started Monday forenoon.

C. Freeland Penley and Leslie Marston are spending a few days with Mrs. Scott Marston of Portland.

WOMEN SUFFER MOST OF ALL

From those conditions of the blood and nerves in which the combination treatment, Hood's Sarsaparilla before eating and Peptiron Pills after eating, gives so much satisfaction at so little cost as compared with other medicines or physicians' fees.

These two great medicines are especially effective in cases of physical weakness, nervous irritability, run-down conditions in which there is iron deficiency. Price of each $1. Ask your druggist for them.

A steel water tank will replace the wooden one doing duty at the Grand Trunk station. It is impossible to keep the retainer from leaking badly and it is almost past usefulness. A new cement platform is also a near future improvement.

Albert W. Walker is having considerable cement work done about his residence. Walks and protection against water from the eaves are the most noticeable improvements.

County fair is nigh and the usual improvements are in progress on the fair grounds. Supt. of grounds, T. P. Richardson of Norway has two teams working over the half mile course and a painter brightening up the fences. There are no radical changes this year in the arrangement of the grounds as planned, this must come later. The exhibition Sept. 11-12-13 will be a large one even though Uno alley fails to materialize.

Mrs. Stacy Robbins of Lewiston is visiting her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robbins. Mr. Robbins enlisted in an engineering corps now in France, but no word has been received from him since he landed.

Jack Reardon is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reardon of the Mountain View stock farm. He has spent considerable time on the European continent in travel and study and sailed directly from Spain, leaving there August 2.

William Skelton, who has been spending two weeks in town and stopped at S. C. Ordway's, was obliged to cut his vacation short a few days and returned home Friday, as he received word that he had been drawn for the army and to appear before the examination board at Lynn, Saturday at 10:30 for examination.

Cross-country hikers have noticed at various places small rock pinacles on walls and ledges. These monuments are practically uniform in design, a wide flat base with several stones above forming a small pyramid. Many have doped this from a child's happy thought to government survey, several going so far as to lay the blame to German agents. "Shavey" Noyes explodes every theory yet in a measure draws a veil of mystery over the circumstances. Friend George claims to be the sole creator of this idea and is the builder. Where ever he travels a marker rises. George withholds the reason for his painstaking act and that is where the mystery lurks. These stones can be found as far as Ossipee, the lake region, Fryeburg and almost any Oxford County town. All interested kindly watch out and remember "Shavey."

Mrs. H. P. Jones, who has been at St. Barnabas Hospital, returned home Friday afternoon much improved in health.

Judge and Mrs. Morrill N. Packard of Baltimore, Md., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Packard.

Oliver Foss has returned to the Norway station as baggage master, the position he held before taking the agent's place.

PUBLIC SAFETY MEASURES

New Bureau to Encourage Wartime Thrift

Following the wishes of President Wilson, the National Community Trade Bureau of Washington is putting into action a nation-wide propaganda for the purpose of encouraging war-time thrift.

The newly formed Bureau, through its official organ The Modern Housewife Magazine, plans the organization of local Thrift Clubs in every community in the United States. The Thrift Clubs will be self supporting and the matter of food conservation will be given especial attention through the Bureau's magazine, which will be written by government experts and other authorities in domestic economy. The magazine is to be given free to members enrolling in the cause and there will be no fees or dues of any sort.

Household efficiency; community welfare; cash purchasing at stores; government bond and other kindred subjects will be taken up by each local club through the assistance of experts secured to contribute to the official magazine. The co-operation with other war organizations will be encouraged. Local trading will be urged from the standpoint of economy as well as patriotism. In this connection it is pointed out that the encroachment of the big mail order houses is becoming serious to the retail merchant one house spending the sum of $3,500,000 annually for catalogues alone.

The National Community Trade Bureau will also furnish local retail merchant with bulletins written by trade experts giving new ideas in business management, especially in the matter of reducing costs in shipping, handling, storing, selling and accounting. It is estimated that the movement will stimulate retail trade throughout the country to the extent of several millions of dollars The officials at Washington believe a nation wide trade campaign put in progress at this time will mean much to merchants in each community and to the country at large. President Wilson has publicly urged trade activity during the war, and in regard to the matter writes: "Commercial activities should go on as usual so far as possible. Indeed I think that they should be stimulated in every legitimate way and that every proper means should be taken to concert the best plan of action and development. It is a time when every sensible process of stimulation should be used."

Selectman George F. Hathaway has already co-operated with the Bureau in behalf of local merchants.

Red Cross Items

A letter has been received from the Northeastern Division American Red Cross. It includes the following telegram from Major Murphy: "Last winter broke record for cold and misery among people here. Inexpressibly dread coming winter finding us without supplies to meet situation. Urge you on behalf of our soldiers and those of our Allies who will suffer in their frozen trenches, and also thousands of French and Belgian refugees and repatriots being returned through Switzerland to France. Everyone here looks to America. Begin shipping at once 1,500,000 each of warm knitted woolen articles already requested. They must come before cold weather and in view of shortage of fuel and other discomforts, they will be of incredible value in both military and civilian work."

The Norway Auxiliary has been asked to furnish 225 sweaters, 225 mufflers, 225 pair wristlets and 225 pair socks. We are asked to deliver these goods by the 20th of September.

Considering the high price of yarn it will be impossible to comply with this request and furnish all the yarn. We shall furnish yarn for the women to knit as long as our funds hold out. Anyone who is willing to buy the yarns will be doing a double service. We shall soon have a standardized supply on hand.

In our letter received we are urged not to let the interest in our other work suffer, but try to stimulate new work in order to meet the demand. This knitting is simple and all young women can be doing a great service by knitting for a worthy cause instead of tatting for themselves. Information can be obtained by calling at the Red Cross Headquarters Tuesday or Thursday afternoons, or by telephoning 52 or 100 Norway, any morning.

Every entertainment given for the benefit of the Red Cross should be liberally patronized. While the women are willing to give their time and strength to making supplies it is right that every man do his part to help furnish the funds when he doesn't have to go to the front.

Letter from R. G. Cole, England

The following letter is from R. G. Cole of South Paris, who is in Epsom, England, address Pte R. G. Cole, No. 1033298, Woodcote. Park, Staff, Div. A. 1, Epsom England:

Epsom, July 27, 1917.

Friend Frank:

Have written to several of the boys about town lately, so thought I would drop you a line tonight.

Was thinking what a lot of changes had taken place in the last year. A little over a year ago we were confounding our luck for being left behind at Augusta. Now I have been over and see just a taste of real war and am back in England safely, wounded.

I am on the staff at the Convalescent Camp here, working in the Q. M. department. Have a pretty good job. Am drawing 4 Pounds a month and getting $35 per month sent home.

Suppose your age and being married will bar you from service at home now. But take it from me, this little scrap isn't over yet and they will want lots of men before its finished.

I heard from Charlie Pike that Whitehead was in England somewhere, but don't know his address.

Suppose Capt. Nash is hustling around as usual. Wrote him while in hospital, but suppose he was busy or didn't get the letter.

I am going to send this to Norway hoping you will get it all right.

Mrs. Hortense Gates is at Center Lovell, where she is doing typewriting for Douglass Volk. What Came From Reading a Pinkham Advertisement.

Paterson, N. J. — "I thank you for the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies as they have made me well and healthy. Sometime ago I felt so run down, had pains in my back and side, was very irregular, tired, nervous, had such bad dreams, did not feel like eating and had short breath. I read your advertisement in the newspapers and decided to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It worked from the first bottle, so I took a second and a third, also a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and now I am just as well as any other woman. I advise every woman, single or married, who is troubled with any of the aforesaid ailments, to try your wonderful Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier and I am sure they will help her to get rid of her troubles as they did me." — Mrs. ELSIE J. Fruit for Throat

Oranges and lemons are not only valuable by reason of their potash salts, case of paralysis of the entire right side is known, where the juice of oranges, adopted as a regular diet, appeared to perform wonders, together with chicken broth. As an aid to digestion—a really material aid—the pineapple stands alone among all the fruit. Its vegetable pepsin neutralizes, or perhaps rather digests, albuminous substances in the stomach. Fresh pineapple—or, better still, the fresh juice of one—placed in direct contact with eggs, or gelatine, or milk, will prove this fact conclusively by producing a bitter tasting dish. In cases of catarrhal ailments of the throat and in its downward connection, the alimentary canal or tract, pineapple cannot be over estimated, and it acts with equal force in malarial affections. Many cases of sore throat have been greatly benefited by eating raw or cooked pineapple. If the throat is too sore to swallow the fruit, take the juice and swallow several mouthfuls of it every little while.

Local Red Cross Work

Our local Red Cross organization sent off several boxes of finished productions last week to headquarters a list of which includes nine dozen slings, three dozen abdominal bandages, three dozen T bandages, 20 dozen handkerchiefs, 20 dozen substitute handkerchiefs, 12 dozen eye bandages, four dozen nurses mitts, four dozen basswood splints, four dozen roll bandages, 100 napkins, 21 fracture pillows, 126 comfort pillows, 69 pairs service socks.

Will the reader just study the above account and see if he can anywhere realize the amount of unselfish work here represented. He can't, no one can unless he has helped do it. The eye bandages, nurse mitts and socks are all hand knit, the pillows are filled principally with fine rag clippings done by the men, women and children and many a blistered finger has resulted by the wear of the scissors. All this has been since the Red Cross was organized in the spring. The faithful women have met three times weekly and the dining room of the grange hall looks like a large manufacturing place which it is. Various organizations and societies have contributed money for material to work with as follows: Collection when organized $4.05, Pine Cone Club $5.00, W. C. T. U. $5.23, Grace Brock's school at Snow's Falls $2.00, High school, West Paris $31.55, Earnest Workers $2.00, Knights of Pythias of Bryant's Pond $5.00, Miss Getchell, Boston, $1.00, July dance $15.00, Pleasant Pond Grange, Sumner, $5.00, preceeds from 4th July celebration $307.21. Total $383.04. $72.00 worth of yarn has been purchased and nearly used up and $75.00 worth more has been ordered. The amount asked for war fund was $400.00, which was raised.
